For more than 30 years, Mick Weltman has served local, national and international nonprofits and associations as executive director, interim executive director and consultant. He has led Associated Colleges of Illinois as executive director for the past six years. Drawing on substantial skills in leadership development, building collaboration, mentoring, professional development and communications, he created the model for and facilitated executive director roundtables engaging more than 275 nonprofit leaders in more than 300 meetings during the past 15 years. These roundtables support participants' professional growth, improve their leadership effectiveness and positively impact the communities they serve. Mick earned a B.A. in Liberal Arts, an M.A. in International Development Administration and an MBA in Finance.
